TECHNOLOGY
UPDATE

Mr. Fischetti proudly announced that Jenna Stack was accepted in the Apple Distinguished Education Class of 2019. This year only 550 candidates worldwide were chosen out of over 30,000 entries submitted (12 from the United States). This is prestigious for the teacher and the District. Jenna submitted video entry showcasing her use of iPads in instruction. Jenna will attend workshops over the summer, have access to resources and training that she can then turnkey in the district as we move to bring iPads in across the district.

We are in the process of planning for computer labs next year. We are looking to reconfigure current lab locations to better incorporate STEAM and robotics instruction. We will be looking to create a horseshoe layout, leaving the center of the room open for robotics activities.

Mr. Fischetti stated that he is working with a large Suffolk county district to help them create an instructional technology and assistive technology program. He has been sharing how our tech instruction is scheduled, what the collaboration between tech instructors and classroom teachers looks like, and how we created out assistive tech program and what that looks like.

Mr. Fischetti indicated that the Tech Department is preparing to do a “road show” presentation at all faculty meetings regarding email scams that are decimating districts. This week alone Wantagh and BMCHSD have lost all email communications. Wantagh has been down over a week with no email capability and they are rebuilding their email system from scratch. Teachers have been very diligent and careful, but the more information we can share the better off we will be.

We will have more accurate information once all of the CSEs are completed to determine the impact on the budget.
